FOREWORD

Evelyn Philip Shirley (1812-1882), the first portion of whose library is described in this catalogue, was one of the foremost antiquaries and genealogists of his day. He found a place in Disraeli's Lothair under the name of Mr. Ardenne, "a man of ancient pedigree himself, who knew everybody else's." His published works include Stemmata Shirleiana, 1841, The Noble and Gentle Men of England, 1859, Some Account of English Deer Parks, 1867, and the History of the County of Monaghan, 1879. While the library is primarily the working collection of an antiquary, it contains much of wider interest. The manuscripts, mainly heraldic, embrace also such diverse subjects as alchemy, medicine, catalogues of pictures, plate, and a catalogue of Lord Chesterfield's library. The printed books include examples bound for Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, Henry Percy, 9th Earl of Northumberland, and William Cecil, Lord Burghley, although the great majority of the armorial bindings will be included in the second portion of the library, consisting of English books printed before 1700. Here again the stress is in the main heraldic and genealogical, though literature is represented by an extensive collection of the works of John Evelyn.

Nearly every book contains one variety of E. P. Shirley's four armorial book-plates; many in addition carry his circular armorial stamp on the sides, or his monogram.
